Limit of Animal Number: Not specified.

Rates: Not specified.

Description: Parrots-R-4Ever (PARS) is a no-kill rescue shelter and sanctuary organization providing care, rehabilitation and limited adoption services for abused, abandoned, or unwanted exotic pet birds. We are dedicated primarily to the larger parrot species, macaws in particular. PARS was founded in 2002 as a community resource and formally incorporated in Alabama in 2004 as a non-profit, IRS class 501(c)3 tax exempt charitable organization. We are located in Huntsville, AL and serve the Huntsville/Madison County area. PARS is staffed entirely by skilled volunteers who are themselves experienced bird owners. The facility is not open to the general public as the presence of strangers stresses many of the birds. However, "official business" visits can be arranged by appointment. PARS is funded largely by private donors and corporations, but public donations are welcome. All donations are tax-deductible.

Description: The Oasis Sanctuary is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit avian welfare organization. Established in 1997, The Oasis Sanctuary is a unique avian rescue and life-care facility, dedicated to providing permanent care, shelter and rehabilitation for companion parrots for which other rehoming options do not exist. In particular we are a refuge for exotic birds such as parrots, cockatoos, macaws and other Psittacine birds – although we do accept Passerines (finches and canaries), Columbiformes (doves and “fancy” or racing pigeons) and other captive avian species. Many of the birds in our care have “special needs”, little or no social skills or have suffered physical and/or emotional abuse resulting in undesirable psychological behaviors. The Oasis is often all that stands between life and death for these beautiful, sentient and endangered companion birds. As a true Sanctuary, The Oasis does not breed, adopt out, sell or trade birds. Once a bird enters the doors of The Oasis, they are guaranteed a lifetime of care and compassion. We assess each individual bird to provide optimum care including a healthy diet, medical care, opportunities for flight and flock socialization in natural aviary environments. Our first priority is, and will remain the long-term care, well-being and safety of the birds entrusted to our care. The Oasis Sanctuary was incorporated in the State of Arizona on May 22, 1997. We are a 501(c)(3) charitable organization. Our Federal EIN number is 86-0885646. We are also registered with the Secretary of State in Arizona as a recognized charity. The Oasis Sanctuary is proud to be the first exotic bird sanctuary to have dual accreditation from the American Sanctuary Association (ASA) and the Global Federation of Animal Sanctuaries (GAS).

Limit of Animal Number: Not specified.

Adoption Rates: Adoption fee ranges from $25.00 - $400.00. Tucson Parrot Rescue interviews all prospective adopters and also requires a class and home visit prior to adoption. The fee for the in-home Parrot Care class is $50 per family, there may be a mileage fee if you are outside the Tucson area.

Lifestyle, space, and the available time to spend with the bird are important considerations, as are the potential adopter’s expectations of a parrot. Tucson Parrot Rescue interviews all prospective adopters and also requires a class and home visit prior to adoption. Lifestyle, space, and the available time to spend with the bird are important considerations, as are the potential adopters expectations of a parrot. Most Tucson Parrot Rescue birds come with an appropriate cage. The rescue may also have some gently used cages for sale.

Description: The Tucson Parrot Rescue (TPR) mission is to rescue parrots in need of new homes, no matter the reason, and to improve the lives of companion birds. One of our main goals is to increase individuals' knowledge of what to expect from parrots and how to care for them properly. The organization also assists in reuniting lost birds with their families, help birds with issues so birds may remain in their homes and arrange adoption of unwanted birds into caring homes with educated caregivers. Tucson Parrot Rescue provides public education on the care and behavior of exotic birds, and takes in unwanted parrots from all parts of the Southwest. We place these birds in safe, loving environments with knowledgeable care givers. The primary educational program is an in-home visit and educational course which provide "basic training" for prospective adopters. This course is created on an individual basis. Please contact TPR to get more information on the in-home training. Once the class and home visit is complete help is available 24/7 for any questions, concerns, issues with your birds. Tucson Parrot Rescue does not have a facility. Instead birds are fostered in private homes, or kept in their original homes until a new home is found which causes less disruption in their lives.

Type of Animals Accepted: Parrot-type birds and other community domesticated birds.

Limit of Animal Number: Not specified. As of April 2018, their website states, "our flock is at an all-time high. We will, therefore, be taking in fewer birds in order to continue to take in those birds that need us the most - birds that have no place, no home, no refuge."

Rates: Not specified.

Description: Mickaboo is a registered 501(c)3 nonprofit organization (tax id #94-3286344) based in the greater San Francisco Bay Area. Mickaboo is an all-volunteer virtual organization, meaning we are a network of volunteers with no central physical location. Our basic goal is to rescue parrots and other commonly domesticated companion birds who have been neglected, abused, injured or surrendered to us because their owners can no longer care for them. To accomplish this goal, we do the following:

- Provide medical care and safe, healthy foster homes for the rescued birds we take in.
- Take in and rehabilitate injured or sick Conures from the San Francisco "Wild Parrots of Telegraph Hill" flock.
- Find and educate quality adoptive homes for the birds in our foster care.
- Inform avian caregivers on the most current standards of care via our free classes, online resources, and consultations.
- Educate the public about the tragedies of overpopulation, and encourage them to adopt, not buy or breed birds.

Description: Parrots First was founded by Rose and Frank Levine, who along with Sue Pastel, Kymberly Snow, Clifford Petersen, Bonnie Jay and a dedicated group of volunteers and foster homes make up Parrots First. Rose and Frank started out in 1996 working on the adoption committee for their local bird club. Like so many bird clubs these days, theirs had been around for a long time and membership was beginning to decline. Most of the members were already in multi-bird flocks and just couldn't make room for one more bird. It is understandable, everyone reaches a point where they just wouldn't be doing the right thing for the new bird and the birds they already have. Although the adoption program was phased out of the club, Rose and Frank continued to receive occasional telephone calls from people looking to place parrots that they could no longer care for and they were happy to continue helping in whatever way they could. Over the years the number of calls they received continued to grow until they found themselves in a position in which they no longer had the resources to care for all of the birds that came into their care. This is why Rose and Frank decided to form a volunteer-based group dedicated to helping secondhand parrots. Parrots First is first and foremost an avian adoption service. The service exists solely to help unwanted or found parrots and, through educational classes and seminars, we hope to dispel many of the myths and misconceptions that are prevalent today. Parrots first is also a parrot

“rescue” in that we will do everything legally possible to remove a parrot from a harmful situation—but in all honesty, this is something that only happens very occasionally. Mostly the organization is here to help people who can no longer keep their bird for whatever the reason. The mission of Parrots First is to:

- educate people on the proper care of parrots and parrot-like birds, including their specific physical and psychological needs
- rescue companion parrots from harmful or unwanted situations
- rehabilitate (when necessary) unwanted, found, or injured naturalized (free-flying) parrots, and
- offer these birds to qualified homes for adoption

Description: The Lily Sanctuary (TLS) is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization. The mission of TLS is to provide loving sanctuary for homeless, unwanted, and special needs parrots in an in-home environment, ensuring quality care, education, rehabilitation, and re-homing. TLS is among the first parrot sanctuaries to provide a true in-home environment. The sanctuary not a shelter; but truly a home with 24-hour supervision. The parrots experience the normal activities, sounds and interactions they might find in their new home. They are provided with time in outdoor aviaries (weather permitting) to enjoy natural sunlight and room to play. This results in less stress on the birds during transfer to a new home. The flock experience helps them readjust from past issues. They learn from each other and rediscover joy, playfulness and trust. The Lily Sanctuary is located in a private home in Fountain Valley, CA (Orange County) and the sanctuary has anywhere between 25 to 35 parrots at a given time. They are mostly large parrots including: Cockatoos, Macaws, African Greys and Amazons. Some parrots are available for adoption while others are permanent residents due to special needs or prior arrangements made, but they all need to be cared for equally. The atmosphere is loud, messy, crowded and chaotic, but at the same time, it is congenial and upbeat because of our exceptional volunteers and amazing birds. Our parrots are given the highest level of care including time in the sun in outdoor aviaries, daily baths if the weather permits and are fed only the highest quality foods.

Phone: 303-629-5900 Extension 215

Fax: 303-629-5901

Email: administration@thegabrielfoundation.org

Type of Animals Accepted: Psittacosis (parrot and parrot-like birds) exclusively.

Limit of Animal Number: No limit, however, it will depend on the amount of space they have at the time the bird is to be taken in. TGF currently provides quality care for 800+ birds each day.

Adoption Rates: There is an initial application fee, which covers a 1-yr membership to The Gabriel Foundation (or a 1-yr extension if you are already a member), your choice of one of a group of selected educational avian books or DVDs (up to $25 value) and the Beyond Bird Basics online course materials and quizzes ($40 value). The actual adoption fee varies from bird to bird and ranges from $50 to over $1000. Many factors are taken into account, including the species, age, health, and overall adopt-ability of the bird. Once you have chosen a specific bird (or birds) we can give you an exact fee. In general, you can expect to pay an adoption fee that is approximately 50% of what you would pay from a private party or retail operation.

Rates: Based on our years of experience in maintaining the birds in our aviary, the following are our minimum monetary guidelines for what we consider to be an acceptable standard of care. Considering the age and species of your bird(s) and your financial planning needs, we suggest that you utilize the following individual bird underwriting costs as a model for determining your bequest to The Gabriel Foundation:

- Finch or canary: $90.00 per year
- Budgerigar or lovebird: $120.00 per year
- Cockatiel: $150.00 per year
- Lory, conure or Quaker: $180.00 per year
- Ringneck or Senegal: $220.00 per year
- Larger Poicephalus, Psittacula, Pionus, small Amazons or Cockatoos: $300.00 per year
- Large Amazon, Eclectus, Mini-Macaw or African Grey: $450.00 per year
- Macaw or Cockatoo $600.00: per year

Note: These fees may be waived for hardship cases

This annual budget will support daily hands-on care by our trained staff, volunteers and Certified Veterinary Technician; a nutritious, well-balanced diet; indoor and outdoor psychologically enriched environments; and medical care by experienced avian veterinarians. The above information is only intended to serve as a guide. We will be pleased to discuss your individual bird's needs with you concerning your wishes for its long-term care, whether in sanctuary, foster care or adoption placement.

Description: The Gabriel Foundation® is a 501(c)(3) avicultural and veterinary affiliated parrot welfare organization licensed by the state of Colorado, promoting educational outreach, conservation, rescue, rehabilitation, adoption, and sanctuary pertaining to the needs of parrots everywhere.

THE GABRIEL FOUNDATION'S PURPOSE AND MISSION

The Foundation's purpose is to serve as a research and educational model to the public-at-large, the veterinary medical community, the pet industry, humane animal welfare organizations and the avicultural community. The Foundation educates the public about the importance of providing appropriately for the welfare of parrots in captivity and the need to preserve the world's parrots in their wild habitats.

THE GABRIEL FOUNDATION: AN INTERNATIONAL FORCE

The Foundation is a nationally recognized parrot welfare organization that provides for the complete physical, psychological, and environmental well-being of the parrots in its care via an integrated holistic approach, insuring thorough education, follow-up, legal documentation and support services the continued well-being of those parrots whether they remain in sanctuary, or transition to adoptive or foster homes. Every decision to either accept a parrot into the organization or to place a parrot into another situation is based on the individual bird's best interest and the well-being of the present flock. The organization also provides for the general welfare of parrots in the public domain by providing accurate, comprehensive and reliable educational and resource materials to the interested public at large through a variety of media approaches. The Foundation's founder and President, Julie Weiss Murad, is a part of the aviculture committee of the Association of Avian Veterinarians whose task is to develop standards of care for avian rescue and sanctuary groups. The Foundation's developing Avian Welfare Council is an international committee whose goal is to develop and promote greater awareness of the needs of parrots in captivity, whether in homes, rescue, sanctuary, or breeding facilities and in the retail pet trade through a set of endorsed and supported guidelines and standards. The Gabriel Foundation actively supports and endorses networking and liaison relationships with other parrot welfare organizations, mainstream animal welfare organizations, the veterinary community, the avicultural community, conservation organizations and the public at large. The Foundation's interaction and involvement with other organizations endeavors to work cohesively to promote educational outreach and to establish a prevailing responsible and quality "Standards of Care" for the cycle of the bird's life. The future of the psittacine bird is completely dependent upon each and every one of us for its short and long-term well-being. We must all work together on a universal level toward that shared goal.

THE GABRIEL FOUNDATION'S AVIARY

The Foundation's medical director evaluates the acute, chronic, and long-term medical needs of all the Foundation incoming and outgoing birds. The Foundation's team of attending and affiliated veterinarians, certified veterinary technicians, staff members, and volunteers provide for the total health care, as well as, for the psychological and environmental needs of all birds. The data collected by the Foundation concerning the birds entering and leaving the aviary, supported by continued follow up communication, is invaluable to the creation of an accurate database. This critical data is needed to support the efforts with facts to better the lives of parrots via human education about the specialized needs of these birds. Birds enter the Foundation's aviary for a variety of reasons: lack of human interest and/or time, conflict with spouse or children, a bird's incompatibility with the human's expectations of it, a bird's "unacceptable" behavior, a bird's physical handicap, a bird's chronic illness, a lost bird, rescue from animal cruelty or abandonment, family or financial hardship, human guardian's illness or death, or requests from a pet store, animal welfare organization, veterinarian or breeder to provide ongoing care, and individual request for sanctuary. The aviary features a separate quarantine room and area and has 5 different rooms to house the birds depending upon their size, species, or health. The aviary also includes a separate kitchen, showering area, small laboratory, office and greeting area. The aviary has many outdoor flights of different sizes, group flocking areas and outdoor caging to provide for every birds daily physical and psychological enrichment and benefit in addition to their nutritional and social needs. [For detailed information, please refer to our Standard of Care and Protocols of Practice brochures.] The aviary is able to provide consistent, high quality care for up to 250 psittacine birds on premises at one time.

Programs: In addition to operating a one-of-a-kind aviary, the Foundation currently maintains seven separate programs: education outreach, rescue, rehabilitation, foster care, adoption, sanctuary, and conservation for the needs of parrots around the world.

Description: The Shyne Foundation is a 501(c)3 nonprofit corporation dedicated to the permanent housing of formerly abused, neglected, and unwanted parrots. Birds were designed for flight and here the birds live in a quarter-acre, 16-foot high free-flight simulated rainforest habitat in South Florida.

They are thus enabled to live their lives as closely as possible in the way nature intended, enjoying the fresh air and sunshine, the trees, the rain, the feel of the earth beneath their feet and interactions with each other. Bob and Liz Johnson, the founders of The Shyne Foundation, so named it in memory of Shyne Browne, who was a dedicated researcher and breeder of Hyacinth Macaws. In her honor, the Foundation is also continuing the research portion of her work with this highly endangered species. Here, the Foundation is attempting to learn more about Hyacinths' natural interactive behaviors (and misbehaviors) in this natural habitat setting, which has seldom, if ever, been done within the confines of captivity. As the caretakers of parrots, we must consider preserving the spirit of the bird as well as merely the physical form. A bird's environmental requirements differ greatly from ours and proper environmental stimulation is important to both their physiological and psychological well-being. Here, we are attempting to provide as natural a setting for them as possible. Being forced into an unnatural environment results in many of the psychotic behaviors exhibited by some pet birds, such as feather plucking, excessive screaming, and biting. Many of these undesirable behaviors are alleviated when birds are allowed to express themselves as birds. When given a sense of self-determination and self-worth, they heal.

Email: birdrescuedj@aol.com

Type of Animals Accepted: Tropical birds only.

Limit of Animal Number: As the rescue continues to grow, our policies must adapt accordingly. Taking reservations for birds that will be entrusted to our care will enable us to project and thereby ensure our feathered residents receive the quality and continuation of care you would want for them and they so deserve. We currently have over 1,400 birds and we expect the numbers will continue to increase over the next few years. The new parrot habitats now under construction will accommodate the permanent resident birds already here at the rescue, but we also want to look ahead in preparation for meeting the needs of our incoming future residents. Per the website on 1/15/2019, plans are underway to include additional new habitat areas to handle up to 2,500 birds. At that point, Feathered Friends will be full.

Adoption Rates: Adoption fees are based on the needs and housing for each bird for such things as food or vet bills. These fees then go into the continued operation of the Rescue. The sanctuary does not give information on specific birds over the phone or by email until your application is approved. However, as a guide, adopting is about 1/4 to 1/2 the cost of pet stores or breeders. One also needs to fully understand ALL the costs of having a feathered companion before you adopt.

Description: Feathered Friends Forever Rescue/Refuge, Inc. is a State-of-Georgia licensed animal shelter and 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization located in Harlem, Georgia. Feathered Friends Forever was established in 1998 when we became aware of the large number of parrots and related species that were victims of neglect and abuse. Feathered Friends Forever was established as a rescue service, specifically for parrots and related species. The goals of Feathered Friends Forever are to rescue abused or unwanted parrots from both retail and private situations (for example would be birds that have passed from owner to owner because of behavioral problems) to act as a placement service for friendly and tame birds whose owners have had to give up their bird(s) for any reason; to serve as an educational resource on the care and responsibilities of owning tropical parrots as pets and advice service for prospective bird owners, current bird owners via email, schools, and retail pet stores; to serve as a permanent sanctuary for birds not suitable for adoption; to build “as close to natural” habitat homes for our birds.

While financial status is not the primary issue in adoption, a source of income is required for adoption to assure BNW that the adopted bird can be provided for and taken to an avian veterinarian for basic health care.

Description: Beak n Wings, Inc (BNW) is a volunteer based 501(c)(3) non-profit charitable organization. The organization is located in Lenexa, Kansas and has been helping parrots throughout the Kansas City area. It is the only licensed shelter exclusively for companion birds (mostly parrots) in the Kansas City area. The goal is to take in homeless, unwanted, or abused parrots, "rehabilitate" them, and find them good, permanent, loving homes. BNW also strives to educate the community on the special needs of these wonderful birds. They promote good health, enriched lives, and loving homes for our feathered companions. Members range from the novice, single or multi-pet owner, to the experienced owner of multiple species. If you have a bird question, there's sure to be someone in the club who will be happy to help you.

Description: The Wilson Parrot Foundation (WPF) is a 501(C)(3) non-profit dedicated to rescuing, rehabilitating, and re-homing neglected and abused Parrots. Their mission is to teach the public about having parrots as pets and how to provide for them with caring and compassion. The WPF travels to shows and events all over the east coast to raise funds and educate people about care and commitment to tropical birds. WPF then focuses on assessing each parrot's needs and rehabilitates them to become sociable human companions. Parrots are rehabilitated by watching other parrots interact with the public. WPF gives back to the community in exchange for donations through parrot parties, school presentations, nursing homes, using parrot tricks to talk about guns, fires, and seatbelt safety, and providing unique pictures for the public at permitted locations. WPF rehabilitates parrots before fostering or adopting out parrots; making the best decision for that parrot. To adopt a parrot, one must first meet volunteer criteria in order to understand the commitment required. WPF is a proven non-profit rescue, which means 100% of your donations (money or material) are tax-deductible. WPF does not breed or sell parrots. If a volunteer wished to adopt a parrot, they must be 30 or older, commit to 3 hours a week for 6 months or 6 hours a week for 3 months, and complete a home visit. Once the bird is released to a new home, a probationary period must be met to ensure a match between bird and owner.

Email: birds@maars.org (general information), surrender@maars.org, adoption@maars.org (adoption or sanctuary information), rescue@maars.org, surrender@maars.org (surrender/intake)

Type of Animals Accepted: Parrots.

Limit of Animal Number: The limit of animals is restricted by the space that is available at any given time. There is currently a 60–90 day waiting list for all intakes except in true emergencies. If you are considering the surrender of a bird, please contact MAARS as soon as possible.

Rates: There is not a required fee for accepting animals into this facility. However, they do ask for a donation at the time of surrender and suggest $25 for small birds and $50 for large birds.

Description: Midwest Avian Adoption & Rescue Services, Inc. is recognized by the IRS as a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization (Federal ID# 41-1944074) and is registered with the Office of the Secretary of State and the Office of the Attorney General of Minnesota as a charitable organization. All donations are tax-deductible to the fullest extent allowed by law.

Captive Bird Surrender (Intake) Services: The organization, MAARS, recognizes that many people can be helped over the "rough spots" in their relationships with their avian companions by offering new information, insights, and resources for coping with the life changes that test these relationships. Unless the situation is extreme or unchangeable, a bird is usually better off continuing to live with its familiar family "flock." However, while it may be possible for MAARS to offer advice in accommodating life changes, surrendering a bird for placement is often the only long-term solution. Although ending a relationship with a beloved companion — even a troubled one — can be very difficult, it is sometimes the best decision for everyone involved. All MAARS birds are thoroughly evaluated and treated or rehabilitated whenever appropriate and for as long as is deemed necessary and in an individual bird's best interest. Any bird that is determined to have a medical condition receives appropriate treatment at MAARS' expense. Nationally renowned and highly respected veterinary specialists and researchers consult regularly with MAARS veterinarians. MAARS maintains detailed files on every bird, including past histories and a record of all tests and treatment(s), concerns, and health or behavioral issues. As an organization, MAARS requires that all birds entering The Landing or a MAARS foster home obtain a CBC and Chlamydia PCR Test. All birds also undergo additional tests based upon species and history as follows:

- Lovebird: PBFD (PCR), biopsy for feather-pickers/mutilators
- Cockatiel: Giardia (Elisa)
- Cockatoo, Grey, Eclectus: PBFD (PCR), biopsy for feather-pickers/mutilators
- Lory: PBFD (PCR), biopsy for feather-pickers/mutilators
- Conure, Amazon, Macaw: Pacheco's (PCR)
- Disadvantaged history and/or presenting signs: Comprehensive chemistry, culture(s), x-ray, endoscopy, biopsies, heavy metal toxicity, aspergillus testing (Elisa), and other diagnostic tools/methods.

Captive Bird Rescue Services: MAARS must occasionally rescue birds that have been neglected, abused, abandoned, injured, or malnourished. These are always the most heartbreaking cases, and they can move the most seasoned rescue worker to tears and rage. All MAARS birds are thoroughly evaluated and treated or rehabilitated whenever appropriate and for as long as is deemed necessary and in an individual bird's best interest. (See above evaluation/treatment details) For severely neglected or abused birds there may be no happy ending, but we do all that we can to provide love, comfort, care, and a safe place to live. If they choose to fight, we fight with them. If they choose to trust again, we give them our trust. If they choose to be unforgiving, we offer our forgiveness. And if they must leave this world, we allow them their dignity and give them our respect.

Bird Adoption Services: Adoption into qualified, non-breeding homes is the preferred option for most parrots and other captive birds. Caring for a captive bird requires a serious commitment, especially if the bird is older and has suffered from neglect, abuse, or ignorance on the part of its former human companion.

Captive Bird Sanctuary Placement Services: In some instances, it is not appropriate or desirable to place a bird into a private home. In these cases, sanctuary placement insures a permanent, stable, life-long home. MAARS currently collaborates with existing organizations to provide this type of setting, should it be determined that sanctuary is the best environment for the bird.

Type of Animals Accepted: Exotic birds.

Limit of Animal Number: Not specified.

Rates: Not specified.

Description: Under My Wing Avian Refuge is a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization. It was founded by Paula N. Ashfield in 2007 and is the first exotic bird sanctuary in northern New Jersey. The primary purpose of Under My Wing Avian Refuge is to provide the birds relinquished to them with proper housing, appropriate care, and companionship with people and other birds. They serve and fulfill the needs of behaviorally and physically challenged birds, sick and elderly birds, and birds that have been abused, neglected, abandoned or emotionally scarred for life. They do not foster the exotic birds. Rather, the birds live on the premises, and Under My Wing assumes the responsibility for their lives and well-being, either for the remainder of their natural lives, or in the case of adoptable birds, until an appropriate home is secured for them. Under My Wing provides long-term care for owners, long term or lifetime care for unwanted or relinquished birds, parrot rescue services, and education to the community.

Description: A-Parrot Rescue is a not-for-profit parrot rehoming organization. But we do not have 501(c)(3) status at this time. (A-Parrot to A-Flamingo, Inc., Parrot Rescue takes the place of The Bird Placement Program. BPP closed as of June 2007)

A-Parrot to A-Flamingo Rescue, as a non-profit rescue and parrot rehoming organization, is dedicated to alleviating parrot neglect and suffering, offering advice to bird owners to assist them in creating a healthy environment for their pet bird. A-Parrot's goal is to promote safe and humane care of companion parrots. Our aim is to take in and rehome unwanted older healthy parrots that would possibly be euthanized because of their age. The organization provides a safe haven with top quality care for the birds/parrots released into our care prior to our locating good homes for them. A-Parrot to A-Flamingo Rescue is a “no-kill” organization.

Description: Rhode Island Parrot Rescue is a 501(c)3 non-profit organization includes the following as a part of the organization's mission:

- Rescue: Birds are surrendered for a variety of reasons. Some come from loving homes and were loved enough to be surrendered. Others have been abused, neglected, or their owners have become disinterested. We do not judge anyone who contacts us. We are here to make a positive difference by helping in any way we can.
- Rehabilitation: Upon surrender, each bird is evaluated and encouraged to eat a healthy pellet diet along with fresh fruits and vegetables. Often, medical problems need treatment, which is provided by our avian veterinarian.
- Adoption: Birds that have been rehabilitated are available for adoption. We thoroughly screen potential adoptive homes with a detailed application, interviews and home visits before any bird is released. Follow-ups are also required.
- Education Services: One of our most important goals is to educate the public about exotic birds. We are available for on-site seminars and hold customized workshops at our facility.

Type of Animals Accepted: Hookbill Parrots.

Limit of Animal Number: Not specified.

Rates: Not specified.

Description: Mollywood is a place where rescued Moluccan Cockatoos can come to live out their days in the limelight! The Mollywood Avian Sanctuary's mission is to provide a permanent, safe and loving home and future for all psittacine species [hookbill parrots] that are free from contagious diseases. Birds are not offered for adoption from Mollywood. When appropriate, as often as possible, attempts are made to refer birds requiring re-homing to suitable new homes prior to their acceptance into Mollywood.

Lifetime sanctuary care in a natural environment is often the best option for displaced, abused or mentally ill captive parrots that have failed to thrive in a single-family home.

Mollywood's overall goals include ending the misinformation that contributes to the cycle of abused, neglected and abandoned pet birds. An important tool in the fight to improve the lives of birds is education. Community outreach and action is required to improve public knowledge regarding the status of parrots in domestic and native situations. The outreach and education initiative will begin Mollywood's proactive efforts toward educating and re-educating the public, with the goal of reducing the high turnover rate of newly acquired pet parrots.
